

Emerald Sky

Kathleen Flaherty doesn't know what to expect when she accepts a position at Shea Crystal in Ireland. A talented advertising copywriter, she seems to hit a stone wall with Connor O'Shea, the head of the glassworks. The handsome, Stanford educated boss, doesn't want an American intruding on his traditional Irish company. But Kathleen is determined to prove herself and not allow his gruff remarks to lessen her confidence. Much as she would like to dislike her boss and keep up a strictly professional relationship with him, she can't help but feel the chemistry that sparks between them. Slowly, she notices his warmth, intelligence and the little things that reveal how much he truly cares for her. Can she prove to Connor that she is capable of producing a successful marketing brochure and worthy of not only his trust but his love?
