

...a wickedly fun treat for vampire romance fans. Filled with wonderfully original characters, this richly sensual story neatly blends romance and horror with dazzling results.

--Booklist Angelina Corbett has always been different. A female chemist in a man's world, she grew up an orphan and has always longed to be as intrepid as the mother she lost. So she came to her only remaining family in England, her uncle, her mother's brother. But strange things are happening in the lovely English countryside. Where the enigmatic neighbor, The Earl of Trelayne, travels, death seems to follow. Death that involves young women drained of blood. Vampires don't exist, Angelina keeps telling herself, defying her own strange visions of the mother she lost. Yet despite all the ugly rumors, the minute she meets the Earl of Trelayne, she is lost in his golden allure. How could any man, bright as Apollo, be such a cursed, dark creature of the night? Besides, he seems to travel with impunity in daylight. And what was his mysterious inheritance? With the aid of intrepidly brilliant but decidedly odd detective Shelley Holmes, Angelina conducts her experiments, drawn despite herself into both the ancient and modern lore of vampires. It will take their combined efforts to defeat the oldest and most ruthless vampire that ever existed... And along the way, Angelina must risk the last vestige of her humanity to help her soul mate regain his.
